'Faith and public policy' forum to be held

This year Kansas Interfaith Action will again be holding a series of "Faith and Public Policy" Forums around the state in the weeks leading up to the 2018 elections.

The event will be held at 7 p.m., Oct. 15, at University United Methodist Church, 1509 S. Santa Fe Avenue, Salina.

These nonpartisan panels are intended to give good, solid, factual information on issues of vital importance to voters of faith and conscience.

Topics will include: the current state of Kansas finances, voter participation, criminal justice reform, the state of anti-poverty programs both in Kansas and nationally, gun violence, responding to climate change in a state that still doesn't want to acknowledge it and more.

Panelists (subject to change):

- Adrienne Olejnik - Kansas Action for Children
- Fred Iutzi - Land Institute
- Cori Sherman North – Moms Demand Action-Kansas, Salina chapter
- Ellen Glover - ACLU of Kansas

The panel will be moderated by Rabbi Moti Rieber of KIFA, who will also give remarks about the moral implications of public policy. Each presenter will speak for 10-15 minutes, and there will be time for questions.
